A
BÉLA TARR
RÉTROSPECTIVE

WILL HEAVEN FALL
UPON US?

Béla Tarr has been described as a “hopeful cynic” and “scatological mystic”, a filmmaker making dystopian fables on the fall of Communism. But his political critiques of a terminally corrupt regime refuse to be pinned down to a specific historical moment and, to the modern viewer, take on a metaphysical quality – a comment on inevitable entropy of all systems, biological, psychological, and social.

Werckmeister Harmonies

12A | 2hrs 22m | Screening from 2 Aug | 4K Reissue

The arrival of a travelling circus spells impending doom in Werckmeister Harmonies, Béla Tarr's portentous portrait of social decay in an isolated Hungarian town.

The Man From London

12A | 2hrs 12m | Screening from 5 Sep | 35mm

The most underrated of Béla Tarr's mature works, The Man from London sees the Hungarian master collaborate with Tilda Swinton on a haunting adaptation of Georges Simenon's classic crime novel.

The Turin Horse

15 | 2hrs 35m | Screening from 14 Aug | 2K Restoration

Béla Tarr's final film is an apocalyptic, spiritually devastating portrait of the relationship between man and nature, as an epic windstorm and a rebellious horse signal the end for a poor farmer and his daughter.

Damnation

15 | 1hrs 56m | Screening from 22 Aug | 4K Reissue

The film that firmly established Béla Tarr on the world stage, Damnation is an utterly desolate take on film noir, as a hopeless barfly in small Hungarian town hatches a scheme to win back his estranged lover, bringing disaster on them all.

Sátántangó (4K)

15 | 7hrs 19m | 4K Reissue

Béla Tarr's 1994 masterpiece is an almost mythical film viewing experience, and the Rosetta Stone of the movement labelled as Slow Cinema. A haunting story of human folly, it is regularly cited as one of the greatest films ever made. Don't miss this very rare chance to see it on the big screen.

Sátántangó is available to book in two parts:

Part I + II screens on 14 Sep

Part III screens on 15 Sep
